

Title: The Psychological Profile of Serial Offenders: A Criminological Perspective

Authors: John Morales, Anna Castillo, Ethan Rivera

Year: 2023

Abstract:

This research explores the psychological traits and behavioral patterns of serial offenders. By analyzing psychological profiles, the study aims to identify common characteristics, motivations, and triggers that influence serial criminal behavior. The findings offer insights into crime prevention and investigative approaches.

Introduction:

Understanding the mindset of serial offenders is critical to criminology. This research examines key psychological and environmental factors contributing to repeated criminal behavior and their implications for law enforcement strategies.

Methodology:

Interviews with forensic psychologists, analysis of case studies, and review of criminal profiles were conducted to compile data on behavioral patterns and psychological traits.

For the full research, contact:

Name: Anna Castillo

Email: anna.castillo@example.com

Phone: +1 987-654-3210